Will Have to Deliver Delegates Before Nomination is Given to Either.

WASHINGTOT, Feb. 27-An interesting phase of the casvass of the delegates to the Republican national convention is the boom for vice-pre-idential candidates to be nominate idential candidates to be nominated with Recretary Taft. Not long ago Gov. Guild of Massachusetts, was slated to go of the tleket with the implied condition that he was to deliver the Massachusetts delegation to the secretary. This might have been all right had Gulld been in a position to control that delegation. There will no doubt be some Taft delegates from Massachusetts, but the large majority will be controlled by Senator Crane and they will not be turned over to defeat the secretary are fruitless. Now comes the proposition to make Gov. Fort of New Jersey the candidate on the ticket with Taft and in this way it is thought that New Jersey will cast a large proportion in not all of her vetes for the proposition of not this way it is thought that New Jersey will east a large proportion if not all of her votes for the secretary in the convention. Heretofore it was supposed that New Jersey was under the control of Senator Kean and therefore antagonistic to Secretary Taft. Color is given to the Fort candidacy and the possible turning down of Kean by reason of a recent dinner at the White House to which Goy. Fort was a guest of honor and Senatora Kean and Briggs were not present. Ernest Colby, a leader of the opposition to the present New Jersey machine, was a guest at the White House at the same time. It is understood that he is working for Taft and would be glad to have Goy. For the ylee-presidential candidate.

In connection with this vice-presidential results it amples and the same the same the second connection with this vice-presidential candidate.

would be gind to have Gov. Fort the vice-presidential candidate.

In connection with this vice-presidential gossip it is amusing to see how politics are played in regard to the second place on any presidential tick-set. We have so often heard that it is necessary to nominate a candidate for vice-president of presidential size to that in case of accident to the President there will be a man to take his place. It is not known that Gov. Fort is not of the character, but he was absolutely unknown to the country previous to his nomination and election as governor of New Jersey last year and since that time he has not stirred the waters of public affairs to such an extent as to draw attention to himself. Twelve years agothere was a search for a Republican nominee and the choice fell on Garrett A. Hobart of New Jersey, Hobart at that time, was not very well known any among the Republican politicians as he had been a member of the national committee for a number of years. Gov. Guild of Massachusetts is a much more prominent man than Gev. Fort. He has a Sunnish war years. Gov. Guild of Massachusetts ly a much more prominent man than flov. Fort. He has a Spanish war record and he has been before the public for a number of years, but it would be attretching the polnt a great deal to say that either Guild or Fortare of presidential size. Well, this entire talk seems to be in the nature of political manipulation, for the purpose of getting Taft delegates, but it might result in the relection of one of these onen. And yet the desire on the part of the Remblicans to have a prominent man for vice-president is more likely to lead them to select Gov. Hughes than either of the other castern governors named.

The talk of Gulld and Fort for vice The talk of Gulld and Fort for vice president had an amusing side, i view of the fact that both or them were n Washington last week. Senator W. Murray Crane of Massachusetta, was very attentive to Gov. Gulld and escorted him about the capitol and introduced him to many of his fellow senators on the floor of the Senate. Senator Kean performed like services for Gov. Fort and Senator Briggs was also very attentive to the New Jersey governor. The other senators had some fun at the expense of Crane and Kean and they were accused of being agents of vice-presidential booms.

"This policy is going to have some interesting regults. For one thing, it is going to give a powerful stimulus to the production in the rural districts of hard cider. The farmers are going to make in Ohio and all apple-growing states of the West and North more hard cider than ever before. They can do so without colliding with any government tax or other restrictions, and they can let the cider run up to where it is 10 per cent, alcohol if they like and still sell it free-ly.

"Instead of drug store drinks we may now expect to bear of the hard cider jag in hundreds of 'dry' communities throughout the country. Yes, sir, hard cider can make a man as drunk as a biled owl in little or no time, and it is up to the prohibition-time to get husy having it declared in the contraband class."—Baltimore American.
